When Business Isn't Business.

It would be a hard matter to convince some business men that their business isn't business. That is, that they are not getting the full returns from it that they should. Yet it is true that many of our most important business men overlook important items that if properly cared for would greatly increase their returns.

Try the advertising of a few special items in

COULDN'T MOVE GALLERY Old Time "Guy" at Newspaper

Doesn't Please Audience. Even the gallery falled to respond with the glad hand of applause when the tinfe-worn attempted joke on the the newspaper men was sprung for the four hundredth time in Police court yesterday morning. The great man who rules over the destines of men and women after the police get them in tow, like the men who write the "stuff" for the papers, occasionally indulges in the bad habit of repeating. As a general thing he is original, spicy and just, but that old left-hander against the men who tell the public what is going on, has been worked once too often and the applause worked once too often and the applause seldom comes.

But the incident may be passed and the docket, (which was a good one, gone into. Edward W. Jones, a young white man, stole a gun and confessed to the stealing. Fortunately for the young man, the person from whom the gun was stolen, reduced the value of it to $45 and saved a penitentiary sentence. Jones received four months in Jail.

Paul Ballew, an aged negro with flowing chin whiskers, was charged with stealing a refrigerator: It turned out to be a mistake. Paul drives a wagon, and he had delivered the refrigerator to a house that looked warm in the Ward Jackson. He was ordered to forthwith hitch his horse to the cart and fetch the cold the city to sell vegetables.

Because Jimmie Mack, a pickaninny, owed him a sum on money and wouldn't pay the amount, Lewis Robinson, a negro youth, smacked the said Jimmie Mack.
Lewis didn't have the $2.50 necessary for freedom.

Politeness Didn't Save Him.

W. H. W. Holmes, the man who salutes, fell by the wayside yesterday and got ten days in which to sober. Holmes has been before the court often, but because of his great politeness has always heretofore escaped the jail.

The Tatarskys and the Schlosses were again in court. This time Lena Tatarsky, a grin not more than seven years of age, had been arrested for striking with a buckle a member of the Schloss family.

"Who issued this warrant?" finshed the court as he looked at the little girl who was in court as a prisoner.

There was no answer, and the next question can't like a thunderboit from his lips.

"Who swore out the warrant?"

"I did" said a female member of the Schloss family.

"Well you just go on out of here and do it quickly. This row has got to stop. The idea of bringing a baby here for me to try. I don't want to hear any evidence and none of you need to start to talking. The case is dismissed," said the justice, and his eyes were snapping fro at the time.

Silas Johnson smoked up Wednesday night and threatened his wife and child. Silas is a white man, and he got twenty days in jail for his behavior.

"I'm sorry for him," gald the wife and mother as she saw the barred door close behind the man to whom she had been wedded.

Boycott Has Ended.

WASHINGTON. August 31.—ConsulGeneral Rogers at Shanghal, cabled the State Department to-day that the position there as to the anti-American boycott is improving. The officials of the State Department have come to the conclusion that the boycott has practically exhausted itself, the Chinese merchants inding that they themselves were the principal losers.
